Accounting software

Whitespace is one of Scotland's leading creative agencies with a renowned client base and a groaning awards shelf. Their natural creativity and innovation, and their digital focus, led to an obvious opportunity to streamline their accounts.

The company chose to outsource their financial record-keeping and embrace the possibility of technology in accounting. Our challenge: to digitise the accounting records, by providing a collaborative system that would integrate with other key management systems in the office.

Our solution was to build a platform which communicated with all of Whitespace's existing tools. This platform combines obvious efficiency with neat built-in features: management accounts that pull all the business-critical information in the blink of an eye, project integration to give foresight of cashflow and billing, and ease of use.

All of which saves Whitespace 2.5 days of staff time each and every week, with improved features and usability.

"We had a shared vision to use technology to streamline our financial processes, reduce our use of paper and remove manual data entry. Allan and his team at Chiene + Tait have been brilliant. From kicking off the project we were up and running on the new systems within 5 weeks. We now have a smoother-running business, are saving time and money, plus reducing the admin burden on many across our teams. Win, win, win!" - Philip Lockwood-Holmes, Finance Director, Whitespace
